NANNY INDUSTRY SPOTLIGHT

So you're interested in being featured on NANNY SHECANDO? That's awesome! Please take a moment to read these guidelines. Complete the Nanny Industry Spotlight Questionnaire + Contact Info Form and return to hope@nannyshecando.com with the subject line "INDUSTRY SPOTLIGHT".

NANNY SHECANDO is a popular childcare related website catered to nannies. It enjoys a growing international audience and an engaged social media community.

The Nanny Industry Spotlight was created in early 2014 with the mission to shine a light on the superstars and rockstars within the in-home childcare services industry. Isn't it about time we generated some good press!

The spotlight is open to nannies, babysitters, childcare workers, nanny + employment agencies, and industry professionals. If you have a story to tell, and you think you're a good fit – you probably are! You do not need to have a blog, website, or business to share your story with the NANNY SHECANDO community.

GUIDELINES

When submitting your interview piece, you consent to its use to be published on NANNY SHECANDO. Links will be given to you, and a warm bio + credits attributed. Once published, NANNY SHECANDO claims ownership of the work. As editor-in-chief, I reserve the right to refuse works. Submitted work must be previously unpublished and may not be published elsewhere in full.

PRIVACY

If participating in the Nanny Industry Spotlight Column, you must have permission to submit the photos used within your piece. Written consent from parents and legal guardians of any children appearing in images must be provided. All contact details are stored for my personal business keeping records only.

COPYRIGHT

So you think this interview series is kinda cool right? Me too. That's why I started it. If you want to start a similar column on your own site, please contact me first. There are IP and copyright issues in place and you will require permission. I believe in an abundance mentality and the power of collaboration.
